

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abbreviations for archives	7
Notice on the spelling of geographic names	8
Introduction	9
1. The construction of the work and specific research questions	13
2. Research method and sources	16
3. State of the art	19
I. Terms describing the population of the Illyrian Provinces and their interpretation	23
I.1. The terms describing the entirety of the population of the Illyrian Provinces	26
I.2. “Illyrians” as the denominator of the Slavs	29
I.3. Les Carniens, les Vindes, Slovenzi — the names describing the inhabitants of Slovenia	33
I.4. Les Croates — the inhabitants of the Civil and Military Croatia ..	40
I.5. The Morlachs — one of the “two different nations” of Dalmatia ..	46
I.6. Dalmatians — denominator of the littoral population, or the name of the entirety of the population of the whole region?	59
I.7. Conclusion	66
II. In the light of the propaganda: representation of the inhabitants of the Illyrian Provinces in the official journal Télégraphe Officiel ..	69
II.1. The image of the inhabitants during public celebrations and their devotion towards the Emperor	73
II.2. Public celebrations and the relations between the Illyrian population and the French governors	79
II.3. Representations of the loyalty and bravery of the Illyrian soldiers	82
II.4. The inhabitants of the Illyrian Provinces as the model members of the society	88
II.5. The inhabitants of the provinces and the progressive reforms of the French government	91
II.6. Conclusion	97

III. The image of the inhabitants of the Illyrian Provinces as the soldiers and subjects	99
III.1. Military potential of the Croats and the Morlachs in the French literature of the 17 th and 18 th century	102
III.2. Evaluation of the attitude of the inhabitants of the Illyrian Provinces in the face of military conscription	112
III.3. The military potential of the Illyrian population and its depiction in the documents of the French administration	116
III.4. The image of the subjects and internal security of the Illyrian Provinces	135
III.5. Conclusion	144
IV. The image of the inhabitants of the provinces in the face of the attempts at economic and social modernization	147
IV.1. The populations of the Illyrian Provinces and the exploitation of natural resources	150
IV.2. The modernization of agriculture and the image of the Illyrian society	160
IV.2.1. Between the lift of feudal burdens and increasing of control: the nature of the Illyrian population and development of the agriculture	160
IV.2.2. “One of the poorest countries in Europe” — the backwardness of Dalmatia and the character of its inhabitants in the face of the attempts at physiocratic reforms	168
IV.2.3. Perception of the Morlachs’ shepherd economy	181
IV.3. Social and judicial reforms and the perception of the Illyrian society	186
IV.3.1. Image of the populations of the Illyrian Provinces in the face of abolishment of feudalism and implementation of the Napoleonic Code	186
IV.3.2. The abolishment of feudalism and the image of the Illyrian elites	192
IV.4. “Between barbarism and civilization” — the image of the inhabitants of the Illyrian Provinces and the anthropology of the Enlightenment	200
IV.5. Conclusion	213
Final remarks	216
Annex	220
Sources and bibliography	227
Index of names	257
Index of geographical and ethnic names and religious groups	266
Summary	273
Streszczenie	275